

GREEN COUCH GUEST ROOM

"A project like this keeps us grounded and grateful," says Green Couch's principal designer Jeff Schlarb. "We realize when we peel back the day-to-day fun times, that others are hurting. We realize that the suffering for some can be softened." And others apparently felt the same way, as Robert Allen (fabrics), Osborne & Little (wallpaper), Blu Dot (furniture), Pacific Views (window treatments), Richard Andronico (upholstery) and Conor McClorey (wallpaper installation and painting) contributed to Schlarb's room. "We were focused on creating a healing, happy place with a tempered palette and bursts of playful color," he says.

GREEN COUCH BATHROOM

Sharing a bathroom space can get messy—ask anyone with siblings—but Jeff Schlarb seemed to have a combatant for this issue in mind. "Our Jack & Jill bathroom was designed to evoke a bit of humor and happiness," says Jeff. "We loved the playful contrast of colorful robots on the walls layered with elephants and sunshine in the artwork and thought this could be the perfect jewel box of a space to prompt a few smiles." And with artwork such as Sunny Rain by Guacho Works and These Friends by Kinga Subject, it's easy to see this shared space becoming a place of friendship rather than argumentation. Conor McClorey installed the robot-themed wallpaper by WallCandy; the mirror is from HD Buttercup; and the shower curtain from Pottery Barn.